Tutor Feedback

Development of confidence and social skills has been clear – participants commented how they enjoyed mixing with people they wouldn't otherwise talk to and making new friends.

All participants were obviously happy and nice to each other (well-being) and those who were immersed in their phones at break times were not even taking them out of their bags by day 3 and 4!

Participants were happy and eager to clear up; do jobs; help with lunch and support each other wherever possible (many offering to help)
